

Edmonton Canoe Club

The Edmonton Canoe Club built a pavilion for their member's use around 1913. It was situated on the Sturgeon River, west of the railway bridge in St. Albert. It was expected that pleasure-seekers using the new Edmonton-St. Albert Interurban Railway would make use of the facility. Unfortunately the rail service did not last and the pavilion closed in the early 1920's.