

Activities for Adults

St. Albert loves Block Parties! Thanks to many great partners you can get free food, street closure, and free activities to help make your block party a success! Visit stalbert.ca and search “Block Parties” to find the “Block Party Activities” guide.

Ice Breakers:

Fun Fact Name Tags

Provide name tags for your party goers! On each name tag write an ice breaker question at the bottom for neighbours to answer when they meet a new person. For more fun name tag ideas see our “Block Party Activities” guide.

Human Bingo / Guess Who

Mingle Bingo
Have a hobby in the summer	Do laundry (excepting lint)	Can play an instrument	Has seen the ocean	Has been married more than 20 years
Can roll their tongue	Went to University or College	Is the baby in their family	Is not wearing socks	Has their cell phone with them
Still in school or taking classes	Has a pet	My Name is	Owns a car/vehicle	Was born in Alberta
Liked camping	Practices Golf over Padel	Likes scary movies	Is younger than 10	Is good at Math
Has been in Hawaii	Has broken a bone	Knows how to ski	Has / will have a celebrity crush	Is change in astrology

Use the template in our “Block Party Activities” guide to get to know your neighbours by playing fact based human bingo.

You will also find the template for Guess Who. In this game, each person gets the name of a famous individual taped on their back. As people socialize, they can ask yes or no questions about who they are and attempt to guess their identity.

Ice Breaker Ball

On an inflatable beach ball write 25 or more ice breaker questions. During the party pass the ball around. When the ball is caught, the person who catches it answers the question under their right thumb and then passes it on.

For a list of questions see our “Block Party Activities” guide.

Truth, Truth, Lie / Match the Person to the Fact

Ask each invitee to come up with two facts and one lie to tell about themselves and let everyone guess which is the lie.

Or

In your invitations you could request a random fact about each neighbour. Place them in a hat and during your party pull the facts from the hat and guess who it belongs to.

Music Share

Play music at your party! Ask for song requests from each family and let the party begin!

Games & Activities:

Fun Yard Games

Use your Block Party invitation to ask your invitees to bring fun yard games they have. Games could include horseshoes, bocce ball, ladder ball or bean bag toss.

Giant Jenga

A fun DIY project that can result in hours of fun for many years to come. You can find instructions on how to build your own Giant Jenga at <https://www.diypete.com/how-to-make-a-diy-giant-jenga-game/>. You can also find a list of icebreaker questions to write on each block in our “Block Party Activities” guide.

Garbage Can Pong

Using large garbage bins, create two triangles of six bins. Each team takes turns trying to throw two balls into the opposing teams bins. Once a ball lands in a bin, that bin is removed. Whichever team eliminates all the other team’s bins first wins.

Swap & Donate Table

Set out a table at your party for neighbours to place unwanted items that someone else could use. Others are free to take what they could make use of. All items left over can be taken to a local donation centre.

Favour Board

This is place for neighbours to post favours they are offering and favours they need; such as babysitting, carpooling, landscaping, cooking, etc.

Staying Connected:

There are many ways to stay connected after your Block Party! Whether you build a Little Free Library in your neighbourhood, host a Winter Block Party or simply take the time to say “hi” to your neighbours throughout the year, every interaction helps create more connected neighbours. For more ideas on staying connected search “Neighbourhood Development” on stalbert.ca.
